

>>>>>>> POINT OF VIEW

Has this ever happened to you?

Your friend or sibling tells a story about something you did together, but it sounds different than how you remember it.

>>>>>>> POINT OF VIEW

For example...

"Happy birthday, James!" I sang out.

"Sara! It's 6 o'clock in the morning! Why are you waking me up?" James angrily mumbled.

Point of view

how someone sees something or their opinion

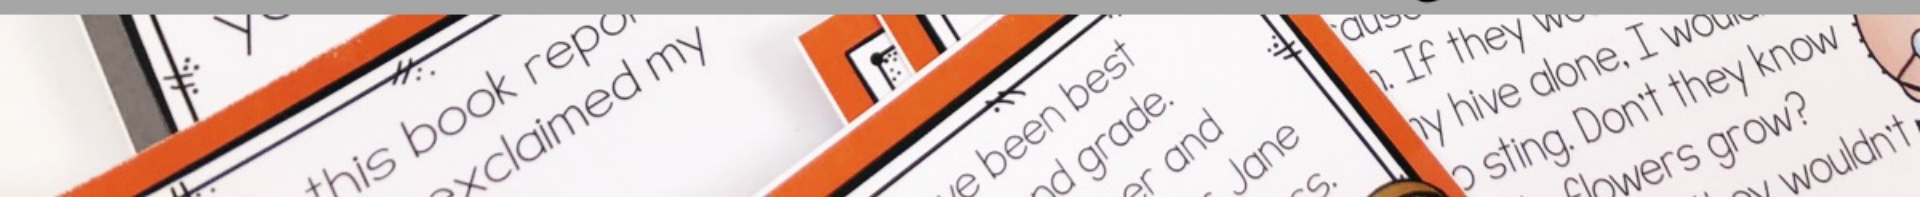

I have one of the most important jobs! Without me, people would get lots of cavities and have yellow teeth. So why don't I get more respect? Kids cry about having to brush their teeth. I'm not scary! Why do you cry? I am often forgotten. You go on a sleepover and leave me at home on the bathroom counter. Don't you think your friends would want to see your cool red toothbrush? So the next time you brush your teeth, try and think about how important I am. Put some good toothpaste on me and let's clean those teeth!

- Who is telling the story?
- What is the author's point of view about his job?
- What is your point of view about brushing your teeth?

DAD

Summer break was pretty boring until I came up with an amazing idea. I should build a tree house!

"Noah, that sounds pretty expensive. We don't have the extra cash right now," said Dad.

"Grandpa has lots of scraps of wood. I'm sure that I can find the supplies I need at his house," I said.

"That idea, Noah. I am just worried that building might be dangerous. You could get hurt or you could even fall from the tree. I don't want any broken bones!" exclaimed Mom.

"Mom, I promise to be careful. Wouldn't you rather I spend the summer being active and playing outside? That will mean that I spend less time playing video games," I pointed out.

Since I was able to talk Mom and Dad into building the tree house! It took an entire week to draw a plan, collect the supplies, and put everything together. It was worth it!

"This is so cool!"
